

10Best Shopping Stops in Napa Valley Wine Country

By Dana Rebmann

02.24.2016

When you plan a trip to Napa Valley wine country, it makes sense to add in the costs of a few bottles of new favorite wines to make the trip home with you. But budgeting shouldn't be exclusive to wine. Napa Valley's chic shopping scene is worth checking a bag for and can come as a surprise to visitors who thought their only souvenirs would come with a cork and label. Expect the un-expected when it comes to shopping in wine country. Locally owned, one-of-a-kind boutiques line downtown stretches in popular spots like Napa and St. Helena. Oxbow Public Market is home to shops that sell everything from rare teas to custom spice blends and locally crafted chocolates. Rabbit Rabbit Fair Trade offers a colorful collection of artisan goods like jewelry, paper goods and home décor from around the world. At the Culinary Institute of America, you can take in the more than a thousand strong corkscrew collection, before shopping at the Spice Islands Marketplace for cookware, kitchen tools and cookbooks.

So save some time and room in your suitcase on your next trip to Napa Valley. You'll need it, especially if you make it to any of our 10Best shopping spots.

2 Atelier by JCB

If you aren't hungry when you walk through the front doors of Atelier by JCB, you will be by the time you take a few steps to the cheese case. The more than 120 cheeses are just the beginning. Along with products locally sourced from Napa and Sonoma, you'll find products from around the world, including charcuterie, pastas, caviar, smoked salmon, mustards, honey, spices, specialty teas and chocolate. More than 1200 different products, representing 250 brands are showcased in a way that's easy to digest. The Atelier is adjacent to the JCB Tasting Salon, which along with pouring wine flights also sells a collection of luxury goods ranging from Baccarat (crystal) to Christofle (silver) to Bernardaud (porcelain). The Surrealist Boutique is a private lounge for wine tasting and showcasing custom-designed jewelry by JCB's Jean-Charles Boisset. (707-934-8237)